GREATEST STATE FAIR

Salem Day Crowned a Glorious Success.

THE PRETTY MARTELS MARRIED

Wonderful Performances of the Oregon Trick Bicycle Riders.

Salem Day was a great event in local history, and long to be remembered. Local pride had been successfully appealed to and nobly reciprocated. If all Salemites had worn a badge, more than half the crowd would have been found to be Salem people.

The State Board of Agriculture more than met the expectations of the public in the splendid program afforded, and with the help of the Salem Day turnout, broke the record for attendance. Over 10,000 paid admission, not counting campers. Including children and free tickets there were easily 15,000 people on the grounds. With good attendance to the last two days, and possibly by running the fair Saturday, the board will be able to meet all expenses and pay the premiums in full. With good weather there is little doubt of the fair touching the revenue point.

THE CITY OF SALEM and all the people thereof, and this extended to all the territory for five miles around, responded beautifully to the demands of Salem Day. All the business houses, offices and factories closed promptly at 10 a. m. and remained closed for the day.

THE JOURNAL was issued at noon and the office closed for the rest of the day. Its twenty odd people wore white badges bearing the legend: "SALEM DAY X RAY JOURNAL." The young ladies, press, room force, editors and carrier boys all made a creditable appearance.

ARTISTIC TRICK CYCLISTS. Next to the Oregon horse Chehalis, the interest of the 12,000 spectators in the grand stand centered in the famous Oregon trick bicyclists, the Martels, of Portland. Their appearance was greeted with applause, and it was announced from the grand judges' stand that Guy Lord and the banker, Mr. Bush, the two most widely known individuals in Oregon, had arrived early to witness their performance, and they nor anyone else was disappointed. The riding is done by the young man Warren and the girl Emma in beautiful costumes.

In stature they have the appearance of being mere youths, with the agility, grace, and that perfect roundness of limbs which is found in children only. Miss Martel is the most graceful and by all odds the most modest performer who has ever appeared in public in tights. Her most daring performances are devoid of the slightest taint of immodesty and delicacy he must fastidious persons.

Warren Martel has been at Salem before, and his trick riding is equal to any in the world. Their performance is divided into two series of trick riding and then a series of double tricks. His last act, riding the entire length of the grand stand on the hind wheel with the front wheel in the air, is not equalled as a difficult performance by any rider in the world. It is not possible to describe in detail all of their acts; suffice it to say that they ride an ordinary "Victor" wheel, not the trick wheel generally used by such performers. They have proven themselves to be one of the most delightful attractions of the State Fair.

THE MARTEL'S WEDDING.

In many respects the most remarkable marriage ceremony ever performed in Oregon takes place this Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock, at State Fair Grounds on a platform especially erected, and in view of thousands of people. Warren Blaney, aged 19, and Emma Crouch, aged 17, will be united as man and wife, and Rev. G. W. Grannis, of the First M. E. church, will perform the ceremony. Miss Crouch is the daughter of a Portland family, her step-father being Mr. J. O'Shaughnessy, of that city where the family has resided for thirteen years. She was born in San Jose, California, and is a member of Taylor Street M. E. church. Warren, the groom, is a native of Baltimore, having come to Oregon three years ago, and has made a reputation at cycle racing and trick riding. He is a modest and gentlemanly young fellow possessing good qualities of character, which, if adhered to, will make his career a success. Emma, the bride, is a most charming little woman, and, if possible, has a keener eye for business and is more mature than her husband. She is eminently practical, and while mingling with thousands daily, is a perfect lady in her conduct. During the hop picking season she cooked for a camp of fifteen hands, and is a thorough house keeper in every respect. She intends to follow trick riding with her husband, and takes the practical view that they ought to be married. The written consent of the parents having been obtained, Mr. Looney, president of the State Fair, and Mr. Jeff Meyers, as special committee, arranged all the details for the wedding.

The State Board of Agriculture have provided them with a beautiful silver water service, costing $65, which will be presented to them immediately after the ceremony. Parson's orchestra will play the wedding march and everybody will want to see the Martel marriage, tonight. THE JOURNAL extends congratulations in advance.

THE CARS WORKED HARD. The lowest number of fares collected by any conductor on the Salem & Suburban Railway lines Wednesday, was 800 while the highest number turned in by any one conductor was 1803 fares. The receipts of the street railway company for the day are variously estimated at from $750 to $1000.

WHAT ALBANY SAYS. The Democrat Wednesday says: Salem is somewhat metropolitan these days. Yesterday morning there were nine people before the recorder at one time, all on different charges. Today more people went to Salem to attend the fair than any day yet. Not for years has Linn county shown the interest in the fair that has been shown this season. Extra attractions today were the great Chehalis, a trap shoot and the entire city of Salem.

The State Fair is said to be a great success, and one of the leading features is the county exhibits, and the best county exhibit is that from Linn county—the judges said so—hence this county can take considerable credit for the said success. If it keeps on this way people are liable to go to calling it a Linn county fair, as they have a Marion county fair at times.

STATE FAIR NOTES. Linn county is ahead. A Linn county man says: "Hurrah for Linn! We took first premium on county exhibit and Chehalis is a Linn county horse."

Barrows Bros. owned him as a colt. Linn county was the only county with courtesy to raise the banner of "Salem Day" over their exhibit, Wednesday—a friendly recognition of Salem enterprise.

"Oh, yes! special brand; have it made for my private use; yes, fine cigar; yes, here's a light; light it up Van, have it made for me up at Seid, don't get such cigars up at Spokane do you, why they cost—light it in the middle?" "Why, why have that?" "Why so it will smoke up quicker Mr. Myers." And that famous blonde smile stole over a famous face.

George "Fordam" McDonald who rode St. Appollo in his surprising finish Tuesday is humming to these lines among his comrades. Everybody had it won but me, But when we came into the stretch, St. Appollo began to catch. Then nobody had the win but me.

Last week Mr. Pague the weather connoctor of Portland, was forwarded a complimentary pass to the fair, with the following attached condition. "Void unless good weather prevails during fair week." It seems from the past fair weather that Mr. Pague has been preparing to use his pass though as yet we have not had a chance to shake hands and thank him for his mighty hypnotic influence over the elements. Mrs. Gabrielson was shocked to have her joke inscribed on the letter transmitting his pass converted into: "No lecher unless good weather." She wrote "no tickets."

The Fourteenth Regiment band U. S. A., was kindly ordered to play at the state insane asylum this evening at the instance of Major Robe, who holds to the theory of the curative effect of music upon the insane. In the competition on bromide photos, Mrs. F. A. Wiggins was awarded first, and Mrs. Claud Gatch, second.

The famous pacer Chehalis and the noted bicyclist, John Staver, of Portland, will race Friday afternoon, mile heats 2 and 3. Mr. Staver has a record of 2:02 for a mile, made at Portland two years ago in a similar race against Chehalis. Both are "native sons" of Oregon and the event will certainly draw an immense crowd. Many of Portland's residents will come to the fair especially for this race. Salem's business men and citizens in general ought to make it another day like yesterday; they can afford to do it.

CHEHALIS' RECORD.

Chehalis was foaled at Vancouver, Wash., about eight years ago. His sire Altamont, 2:20, and his dam is Tecora, by Cassius M. Clay, both sire and dam being owned by Jay Beach, now of Alameda, Cal. Chehalis was sold by Beach to his present owner, Frank Frazier, of Bendleton, when he was about two years, and was trained and raced as a three-year-old by Sam Castro.

He showed wonderful speed at a very early age, but was out of the 2:20 list until 1895, when he paced clear away from his green records in the ranks of the fastest pacers in the country, taking a record of 2:07 at San Jose, Cal. Frazier took him in hand, and has trained, shod and drove him since.

His owner has never given the horse an opportunity to measure his speed with other horses of his class, but there are plenty of horsemen who are willing to back him against any hobbled pacer on earth. During the recent Montana meeting he paced a mile, 25 feet from the pole, in 2:07, easily defeating Searchlight, the greatest 3-year-old in the world.

A marriage license was today issued by County Clerk L. V. Ehlen to George Franklin Baker and Lillie May Bennett.
